Figs grow on fig trees. In Bible times people ate fresh figs in the summer and stored them to use in cakes. Adam and Eve used leaves from the plant to make clothing. (Genesis 3:7)

Pomegranates are about the size of tennis balls. This fruit grows on a bush, is full of seeds, and is sweet to eat. God told Moses to decorate the hem of the priest's robe with pomegranates made of yarn. (Exodus 28:33)
