Ruth and Boaz

RUTH 1-4

Naomi had a hard life. She and her husband and their two sons moved to Moab because there was a famine in Bethlehem where they lived. Soon, some terrible things happened. Naomi's husband died, and she was left alone with her sons. The sons married women from Moab, but later her sons died.

Naomi decided to go back to Bethlehem to live near her relatives. Ruth, one of Naomi's daughters-in-law, decided to go with her. Naomi wanted Ruth to stay in Moab with her family, but Ruth would not leave Naomi's side. Ruth declared, "Where you go, I will go. Your people will be my people, and your God will be my God."

Naomi and Ruth returned to Bethlehem at harvest time. The women had no way to earn money for food, so Ruth received permission to gather grain that was left in the fields by the workers. Boaz, a relative of Naomi, saw Ruth working in his field. He was kind to Ruth and told his workers to leave extra grain behind for Ruth to gather. He told Ruth to work only in his field where she would be safe and to drink the water provided for his workers. Boaz said to Ruth, "I have heard what you have done for your mother-in-law. May God reward you!"

Naomi was proud of Ruth. Ruth was kind to Naomi and took care of her. Naomi's friends told Naomi, "Ruth is better to you than seven sons!"

In time, Ruth and Boaz were married, and they had a son named Obed. Naomi loved the child and helped care for him. Obed grew up and was the father of Jesse and the grandfather of King David. Obed also was an ancestor of Jesus.
